PREFACE

The Historical Records Survey, a Nation-wide project of the Division of Professional and Service Projects of the Work Projects Administration was organized nationally in January 1936, with Dr. Luther H. Evans as National Director. Since September 1939 the Historical Records Survey Program has functioned as a State-wide non-Federal Project under local sponsorship.

The principle objective of the Historical Records Survey Program in New Mexico has been to discover, preserve and make accessible the basic materials of historical research. Inventories of the records of ten counties, six of which have already been printed, have been prepared. Inventories of the State, counties, cities, towns and local public archives are being made and will be published when finished. Although emphasis has been placed upon the survey of county and federal archives the program also includes a State-wide survey of all active churches and religious organizations in the State of New Mexico.

In presenting the Directory of Churches and Religious Organizations in New Mexico, we have confined ourselves to a recording of the facts found by a thorough survey of the entire State. We have accepted without question the status and affiliation claimed by responsible church officials for all religious bodies and institutions shown in this directory. The framework upon which this directory was compiled was the United States Census of Religious Bodies 1926.

This directory contains the data gathered in a survey of all religious groups in New Mexico. Through the charts and maps, as well as the functional material presented, the directory indicates the magnitude of the four centuries of religious activities in the State.

We are especially indebted to the following church officials for their courtesy and consideration in aiding us to obtain the information and material used in this directory: The Most Reverend Rudolph A. Gerken, Archbishop of Santa Fe; the Right Reverend Frederick B. Howden, Protestant Episcopal Bishop of the Missionary District of New Mexico and Southwestern Texas; The Reverend William Goudberg, Missionary of the Christian Reform Church, Tohatchi; The Reverend Peter Van Es, Missionary of the Reform Church in America, Mescalero; H. C. Reavis, former Recording Secretary of the Baptist Convention of New Mexico; The Reverend E. A. Maness, Pastor Central Avenue Methodist Church in Albuquerque; The Reverend David Reiter, Stated Clerk of the Presbyterian Synod of New Mexico; Mr. T. R. Gardner, Secretary, Texico Conference of Seventh-day Adventist; The Reverend Wright Randolph, Pastor, Fifth and Marble Church of Christ, Albuquerque; The Reverend O. R. Warford, Pastor, First Congregational Church of Albuquerque; The Reverend Carl F. Schmid, Pastor, Evangelical Lutheran Church of Albuquerque. In Addition to those named we desire to express our deep appreciation to all members of the clergy, to the justices of the peace and the postmasters who cooperated so willingly in supplying the information in this directory.

The publication of this directory has been made possible by the financial support of the University of New Mexico, the official sponsor of the Historical Records Survey Program in New Mexico.

The work of collecting, verifying and editing the directory entries, as well as editing the short essays which were submitted by officials of each sect, was under the direction of the State Superintendent and was done by Virgil V. Peterson, former Supervisor of Federal and Church Archives Inventories. Assistant to Mr. Peterson was Benny Bennett Baca. The typing was under the direction of Nina N. Cable and Zenaida Olguin. Charts and maps were drawn by Martin H. Quirk. All members of the staff participated in various phases of the work. Mimeographing of the directory was under the supervision of Mrs. Claudia Marshall of the University of New Mexico Press.

Preparation of the directory was in accordance with technical instructions from the Washington Office of Historical Records Survey; detailed editorial comments and criticisms were furnished by Donald A. Thompson, Assistant Archivist for Church Archives Inventories. The final check for accuracy and form of the inventory was made by the local editorial staff.

Additional information regarding churches and religious institutions in New Mexico as well as all requests for information concerning the Directory of Churches and Religious Organizations in New Mexico should be addressed to Herbert O. Brayer, State Supervisor, Historical Records Survey, Box 90, University of New Mexico, Albuquerque, New Mexico.

ADVENTIST

SEVENTH-DAY ADVENTIST DENOMINATION

Work of the Seventh-day Adventists Denomination began in New Mexico in 1895. From this time until 1907 over 300 members became identified with this denomination. In that year the work was placed under the jurisdiction of the Colorado Conference, and later in the same year it was turned over to the Southwestern Union Conference with headquarters at Keene, Texas. In 1908 New Mexico was organized as a mission field and in the following year became a self-governing conference known as the New Mexico Conference of Seventh-day Adventists, with official headquarters at Estancia, from where, in 1910, it was removed to Albuquerque. West Texas and New Mexico were, in 1915, united into what is now known as the Texico Conference. This is one of the four local conferences constituting the Southwestern Union Conference which still maintains headquarters at Keene, Texas. The New Mexico membership today is approximately 700. There are twenty-one active ministers and twenty churches.*

ASSEMBLIES OF GOD, GENERAL COUNCIL

Activities of the Assemblies of God are an outgrowth of a conference held in Hot Springs, Arkansas, in 1914 to which representatives of many denominations attended. The purpose of the conference was to organize evangelistic activities. As a result the Assemblies of God, General Council, was created and subdivided into district councils. A short time later work of this denomination spread into New Mexico which was placed under the jurisdiction of the Texico District Council with headquarters at Plainview, Texas. Early in 1940 a reorganization was effected in which New Mexico was organized as a separate district council. Headquarters are now located at Mountainair.

Overlapping this district council is the Latin-American District Council. Work of this council is confined to the Spanish speaking people. Offices of the state presbyter of New Mexico are located at Belen.

There are fifty-seven separate congregations under the jurisdiction of the two councils, containing approximately 4,300 members.

BAHA'IS

The Baha'i Faith, which had its inception in Persia in 1844, did not reach New Mexico until 1936, when four members came to reside in this state. Activities were begun as the result of an appeal from the National Spiritual Assembly of the Baha'is of the United States and Canada for "pioneers who would settle in the remaining seven states of this country in which assemblies had not been permanently located for the purpose of propagating the Baha'i Faith." During 1937 and 1938 eight members, in response to the appeal were gathered here from various parts of the country.

In April 1939, a governing body of nine, to be known as the Local Spiritual Assembly, was elected. This was the first and as yet the only organization of the Baha'i faith which functions officially in New Mexico.*

BAPTISTS

Missionary work by the Baptist Church began in New Mexico in 1849. In that year Rev. Hiram W. Reed a graduate of Hamilton College, arrived in Santa Fe. He had been commissioned by the American Baptist Home Mission Society to do work in California but on arriving in Santa Fe he was so impressed with the need and possibility of missionary work that he requested that he be reassigned to the New Mexico area.

Rev. Reed's enthusiasm resulted in the sending of other missionaries to this field. One of these was the Rev. Samuel Gorman of Dayton, Ohio who was assigned to work among the Laguna Pueblo Indians in Valencia County. After spending six and one-half years at Laguna he began work among the native New Mexicans at Santa Fe where he spent the following three years. From 1849 to 1866 there were twelve Baptist Missionaries assigned to New Mexico. These spent the major part of their time in Santa Fe, Albuquerque, Laguna, Peralta, and Socorro. Several churches were organized and chapels were erected. Native preachers were also trained in the ministry. However, during the Civil War period some of the missionaries were driven from the field and others were forced to discontinue their labors by reason of the depleted treasury of the Society.

Work was not resumed until 1879 when the Society again began sending missionaries into the area. The various organizations has then disappeared and the chapels had fallen into the hands of other religionists. In January 1880, a church was organized in Las Vegas through the efforts of Mr. H. Newberry, who was then an employee of the Santa Fe Railway, but who subsequently became a Baptist minister. In 1882 the church in Raton was established. Soon after groups were organized in the southern part of the Territory most of which were located in and near the Sacramento Mountain area, in what now embraces Lincoln and Otero Counties. From 1880 to 1900 there were fifty-three missionaries sent to New Mexico.

In 1887 the first Baptist Association of the Territory was formed. It embraced six small churches in the southeastern part of this area, and was known as the Lincoln County Association. Subsequently the name was changed to the Lincoln Association. This organization was divided in 1909 and a new association, known as the Pecos Valley Association, was organized.

A second association was organized in 1888 by ministers from El Paso, Las Vegas, and Albuquerque. Representatives to this organization met in Socorro in an old adobe chapel which was erected in the fifties by the Home Mission Society. This old structure has been preserved and houses the present Socorro City Library. The Santa Fe Association was organized in 1900 and the Portales Association in 1902. The Southeastern and Central Associations came into being in 1909. Subsequently others were added until there are today nine associations in New Mexico.

In 1900 a Territorial Convention was organized at Las Cruces consisting of twenty-seven churches. In the following seven years there was an increase to sixty churches. By 1909 there were 5,000 members attending 130 churches. The Baptist Convention of New Mexico in 1939 had a membership of approximately 20,000, and 131 churches.

There have been two educational institutions operating under this Convention, the New Mexico Baptist College and the Montezuma College. Both of these are closed at the present time. The Baptist Children's Home at Portales is the only institution now sponsored in the State by this convention.

The Spanish Baptist Convention is also a part of the Southern Baptist Convention and is now conducting services with nine distinct congregations within the State.¹

The Mountainview Baptist Association in the middle-western portion of the State, claims no affiliation with any convention or other Baptist group in the State. This association is comparatively new, having thirteen active churches holding regular services.²

The Colored Baptists in New Mexico have been active for approximately thirty years. In 1911 the Mount Olive Baptist State Association was organized as an affiliate of the National Baptist Convention. Rev. J. B. Bell of Phoenix, Arizona, was elected the first moderator and missionary of the association. He and Rev. O. F. Dixon have been responsible for its major development. It consists at the present time of ten churches and five mission stations. A school was operated for several years at Vado, but the project was finally abandoned.³

1. Information obtained from P. W. Longfellow's Baptist Beginnings in New Mexico, a leaflet published in 1909, and from the present survey of the Baptist Church.

2. Information taken from present survey.

3. Information taken from a letter from S. T. Richards, Secretary of the State Association to the Editor of the Church Directory, dated December 6, 1939.

CHURCH OF GOD

The Church of God was established in New Mexico in 1927. At that time there was but one family of this faith living within the State. They resided at Hatch in Dona Ana County. In March of that year they requested that a minister be sent to New Mexico. In response Reverend Vere Williams came from Emporia, Kansas, and held a series of meetings at Hatch and Arrey. Several conversions were made the nucleus of a congregation.

In 1928 Reverend William A. Lambert of Hutchinson, Kansas, held another series of meetings resulting in additional conversions and the organization of a Sunday School. Reverend Williams returned and held meetings during June and July 1929 and again in March 1931. In the ensuing seven years three pastors, Reverend J. V. Sutherland, Reverend L. B. Scott, and Reverend Sharp served in this pastorate, during which time a small chapel was built at Hatch.

In December 1938 Reverend Vere Williams, then of Hammond, Louisiana, returned as pastor. The work has continued to expand and at present there are other branches which are being developed at Clovis, Espanola, Hot Springs, and Roswell.*

CHURCH OF THE OPEN BIBLE

The Church of the Open Bible in Albuquerque grew out of a Sunday School which was organized in the summer of 1938, and composed mainly of young people. In the autumn of the same year, the Rev. Harold Wallentine, an ordained minister of the Church of the Open Bible in Des Moines, Iowa, came to New Mexico as a health seeker. He was induced to take over this Sunday School movement, which he reorganized as the Church of the Open Bible and headed successfully until June 1939. From then to October, the church was in charge of Rev. Bryant Mitchell, at which time Rev. and Mrs. Gerald Pletcher from Des Moines, Iowa, both ordained ministers, were elected to a permanent pastorate. The membership is now approximately seventy-five.*

CHURCHES OF CHRIST

Under the leadership of Brother S. V. Smith, the first congregation of the Church of Christ was established shortly before 1900 at Bethel, New Mexico, in the lower Pecos Valley. Early in this century work was begun in Roswell, Hope, and Alamogordo by evangelists of the Churches of Christ. The most prominent leaders in this work were John L. Stoval, J. R. Jones, X. W. Morgan, and A. J. Cox, under whose guidance the church expanded rapidly in the Pecos Valley. Before many years Churches of Christ were established throughout the entire southeastern portion of the State and numerous congregations were being founded in other sections.

The present number of churches exceed sixty with a following in excess of 4,000 members. The valuation of church property in the State is estimated at several hundred thousand dollars which is invested in modern, well equipped buildings.*

COMMUNITY CHURCHES

In New Mexico there are a great number of Community Churches. The majority of these, however, are denominationally connected with one of the major protestant bodies. Only six groups in the state function independently as community congregations. These are located at Alameda, Albuquerque, Belen, Capulin and Seneca.

CONGREGATIONAL - CHRISTIAN CHURCHES

Soon after the Treaty of Guadalupe-Hidalgo, February 2, 1848, which terminated the war with Mexico, and ceded to the United States the territory embracing the present Arizona and New Mexico, a group of Congregational church leaders met in Chicago to consider what could be done toward the establishment of educational and church work in the new Territory. The organization of the New West Education Commission with home offices in Chicago, and a field office in Salt Lake City, was the outcome of this meeting.

The first Congregational school in New Mexico was opened in Santa Fe, September 1, 1887. It was incorporated under the name of the University of New Mexico and Rev. Horatio O. Ladd, D.D. was the president. The first building was named Whiting Hall. The following year another school was opened in Las Vegas under the name of the East Las Vegas Academy, Congregational. Congregational work was organized in Old Albuquerque in a two room adobe house, while another building, a two story brick and stone structure with full basement was constructed on the site of the present Albuquerque Public Library. This new building was an academy which, together with the two other schools at Santa Fe and Las Vegas, became the center of higher education in the State until the State University was founded in 1889, which incidentally took its first faculty from the teachers of the three congregational schools mentioned above. The late Professor Hodgins, for whom one of the buildings at the present University of New Mexico was named, was the last principal of the Albuquerque Academy.

When the Academy was opened in Albuquerque in 1880, the work among the Spanish-American citizens was begun by the opening of day schools in Barelás, Belén, San Rafael, Espanola, Deming, and White Oaks, and went as far south as El Paso, where in 1890, a seminary was opened jointly with the American Board, for the purpose of preparing young men from New Mexico for the work of the two missionary bodies. Other schools were opened at San Mateo, Cubero and Rancho de Atrisco.

In 1898, the New West Education Commission was merged with the Congregational Education Society, which continued to expand the work, establishing schools at Cabezón, Seboyeta, and Marquez.

As early as 1885, preaching was started in all the places where the Congregationalists had established schools. The first Spanish-American Church was organized in 1890 at Los Ranchos de Atrisco (now Armijo). The next church was organized in 1911, at San Mateo with others founded in Albuquerque, in 1926, in Grant in 1928, in Seboyeta, in 1929.

In September, 1908, the Rio Grande Institute, a boarding school for boys and girls was opened. It was necessary to close this school, however, in 1932.

All Congregational day schools were closed in 1926, because of a shortage in the funds of the missionary societies. The vast improvement in the public school system of the State made the church educational efforts not as necessary as they were formerly.*

DISCIPLES OF CHRIST

The Disciples of Christ, otherwise called Christian Churches or Churches of Christ in New Mexico, are organized as individual and independent congregations. At present, there are eighteen Christian Churches in New Mexico, with a resident membership of about 3,700 communicants. The First Church of Roswell was organized in August 1893 by Elder John C. Hay of Colorado. A year later, in 1894, this congregation erected the first church built by the Disciples of Christ in New Mexico. In 1903 congregations were organized in Albuquerque and Carlsbad and in 1910 a congregation was started in Portales. The church at Las Cruces was organized in 1914, after which other congregations were established in most of the principle communities: Hobbs, 1930, Rodeo, 1933, Santa Fe, 1933, Monte Vista Church in Albuquerque, 1931. In addition, there were a good many smaller churches which have been discontinued as some of the earlier settlements passed out of existence from time to time.

The first organization of these churches was effected at Las Vegas, in November, 1907, when eight churches, with a total membership of between 800 to 1000, established the New Mexico Christian Missionary Society. The first convention was held at Roswell in 1908 and the second annual convention was held in 1909 in El Paso, Texas, under the name of the New Mexico-West Texas Christian Missionary Society. The two El Paso churches have continued to cooperate with New Mexico, with the exception of the years 1928-1934, inclusive. The name of this group of churches is now the New Mexico-Southwest Texas Christian Missionary Society.*

FAITH TABERNACLE, INCORPORATED

The Faith Tabernacle was organized in Albuquerque in 1929. Through the efforts of Mrs. Mae Applegate a group of twelve people united to form an independent full gospel church. A church building was erected and dedicated on November 29, 1930, by the Rev. W. F. Garvin of Tulsa, Oklahoma. After a series of meetings lasting two weeks, Rev. Clarence W. Atwater of Albuquerque was chosen as pastor, serving in this position to the present time. Several workers have been called into evangelistic capacities. This has resulted in the organization of two branch churches, one in north Albuquerque and the other at Peralta. Recently another branch was organized at Jamestown, New York.

Membership is not stressed as the work is carried on from an interdenominational point of view.*

INTERNATIONAL CHURCH OF THE FOURSQUARE GOSPEL

Ministers of the Foursquare Gospel began their activities in Albuquerque, New Mexico, during 1929 and 1930. Little success attended these first efforts. In 1938 meetings were held in Las Cruces, but no permanent organization was established and the work was later abandoned. Evangelistic meetings were held by representatives of this sect in various towns and cities. The first permanent Foursquare Gospel Church in New Mexico was founded at Raton in 1937, and a church building was later erected. Activities in Albuquerque and Clovis were begun in 1939. No membership figures are available.*

JEWISH CONGREGATIONS

The oldest Jewish Congregation in New Mexico is Congregation Montefiore in Las Vegas, which was founded in 1884. The Congregation built a Temple in 1889, which has served ever since as their place of worship. The greatest number of members ever attained was sixty-five, but at present, the membership is only twenty-five. For this reason the Congregation is unable to maintain a permanent Rabbi, however, the present officers are: Milton Taichert, President; H. Voda, Vice-President; and Nathan Jaffa, Secretary and Spiritual Leader.

The second oldest Jewish body in New Mexico is Congregation Albert in Albuquerque. The Temple at Seventh and Gold Streets in that city was erected in 1899, but for several years previous to its erection, services were conducted in Redman's Hall. Henry N. Jaffa was the first president of the Congregation, and was also the first Mayor of Albuquerque. William H. Greenberg was the first Rabbi of Congregation Albert. Other pioneer members of the Congregation who were prominent in civic affairs were: Mike Mandell, former Mayor and Treasurer of Albuquerque, and later County Commissioner; Alfred Grunsfeld was Chairman of the Board of County Commissioners; Ernest A. Grunsfeld and Berthold Spitz who served as Postmasters of Albuquerque. Also prominent in the early history of the Congregation were Noa and Louis C. Ilfeld, together with Aaron and Edward Rosenwald. Mrs. Noa Ilfeld was the first Temple organist. The present membership of the Congregation Albert is about seventy.

The history of an organized orthodox Jewish community in Albuquerque goes back only to 1915, when for the first time orthodox services were held on the High Festivals in the home of one of the members. In 1920 a group of men, including David Meyer, E. M. Elias, Aaron Katz, and Ben Marcus formally organized the B'nai Israel Congregation. In 1934 the Congregation engaged a part-time teacher who remained for three years until in January 1940 an ordained Rabbi was called to serve the growing Congregation.*

CHURCH OF JESUS CHRIST OF LATTER DAY SAINTS (MORMON)

Marching through New Mexico in 1846 the members of the Mormon Battalion were quick to note the possibilities for future settlement in New Mexico. After the disbanding of the battalion in California many of its members made their way to Salt Lake City where the story of the march from Fort Leavenworth, Kansas to Santa Fe, New Mexico, and from Santa Fe, New Mexico to San Diego. California became well known among the Saints. The sending of missionaries among the Indians of Arizona and New Mexico was made a definite part of the church program although little success attended the first effort in this direction.

Ramah Ward: First successful missionary efforts in New Mexico began in the late seventies of the nineteenth century with the work of Ammon Tenney who succeeded in converting a group of Zuni Indians including the governor of the pueblo. In 1877 Luther C. Burnham and Ernest A. Tietjen were sent to New Mexico as missionaries to the Navajo Indians. The two men stopped for several weeks at Fish Springs, six miles southwest of present Ramah, and later moved to the little Spanish-American village of San Lorenzo, fifteen miles southeast of Ramah. At San Lorenzo the missionaries spent the winter of 1876-77 working among the Indians and the natives. They were joined in 1877 by other Mormon settlers. Hit by a smallpox epidemic in the winter of 1877 the settlers moved to a new site in the Cibolleta Valley four miles from present Ramah in Valencia County. Other Mormon settlers soon followed and the communities of Savoia and Navajo grew. Navajo prospered due to the accessibility of water. At a special meeting April 8, 1883 Navajo was organized as a church ward. In 1886 the Navajo settlement applied for a post office, but since there was already a post office by the name of Navajo the name of the settlement was changed to Ramah, a Book of Mormon name. A log house day school was erected in 1878 and was also used for religious meetings. The Ramah settlement experiences land difficulties in 1889, but the timely intervention of the Mother church in Utah saved the situation. Through the First Presidency $6400 was paid for the land in dispute. A census taken in 1884 showed 104 church members. In 1900 there were 111 members and in 1930 the community had grown to 257 members. A meeting house costing $20,000 and capable of seating 300 persons was erected by the Ramah Saints in 1929.

Pleasanton Ward: In October 1882 Mormon settlers founded the town of Pleasanton in Williams Valley on the San Francisco River in Socorro County. A concrete school was erected by the settlers and in the same year, 1882, the Pleasanton Ward was created. A church record in 1884 shows that 114 Saints belonged to the Ward. Land difficulties soon beset the settlement, however, and by 1886, almost all of the Saints had left Pleasanton. Jacob Hamblin, noted Latter-day Saint Indian Missionary and pioneer remained with his family. In 1886 Hamblin died and by 1889 not a Mormon lived in the valley.

Luna Ward: On February 28, 1883 a small group of Mormon settlers stopped in the rich Luna Valley in Socorro County, 120 miles west of Magdalena, and founded a settlement which they named Luna. Some trouble with prospectors and sheepman was experienced. Church officials on November 15, 1883, organized a new ward which they first named Grant Ward, but later changed to Heber Ward. Apache Indian Wars gave the Mormon settlers some concern in 1883. A log fort 22' x 28' was completed in April. In the following year a log school 20' x 30' was constructed. This building was also used as a meeting house. The members of the Ward founded a cooperative store in January 1884 and succeeded in obtaining a post office. In 1887 the name Heber Ward was changed to Luna Ward. Church records show 193 members in 1900 and 136 members in 1930.

El Rito - Rio Arriba Settlements: Attempts to establish a Mormon settlement at El Rito in September 1893 proved unsuccessful, most of the settlers returning to Colorado. Some of the Saints from the San Luis Valley in Colorado founded a settlement at Puente in 1889 which they called Marianna. In 1892 the First Presidency at Salt Lake City advanced $2000 for the purchase of lands on the Chama and the building of a settlement. Ten families were called from Sanford and Manassa. On December 11, 1892 a ward was established. A year later 112 members resided at Marianna. Both a meeting house and a school were erected by the Mormon settlers. Constant floods and the difficulty in conveying the water to the land discouraged the settlers. In 1894 the Ward was disorganized and the members moved back to the San Luis Valley in Colorado.

Bluewater Ward: Bluewater, a small station on the Santa Fe Railroad, 101 miles west of Albuquerque, is located in a valley watered by the Bluewater creek, a tributary of the San Jose. Before the advent of the railroad, Bluewater was a mail and stage station on the Old Santa Fe Trail from Santa Fe west to Fort Defiance. The proximity of the railroad and of an adequate water supply made the land ideal for stock raising and for agriculture. Soon after the railroad was built members of the Ramah Ward of the Latter Day Saints church saw the possibilities of Bluewater and bought a portion of the old stock ranch that was located in the valley. In 1894 Elder Tietjen moved his family to the Bluewater station. A branch of the church was organized in July 1901 and was attached to the Ramah Ward. On May 27, 1906 Bluewater was organized as a separate ward, but in May 1923, the Ward was disorganized and the local branch attached to the Western States Mission.

Refugee Branches: The Diaz revolution in Mexico caused a migration of many Mormons from that country back to the United States. Many of these church members came to New Mexico and founded new branches of the church. The Mesilla Park Branch was founded in 1912 but was disorganized in 1929 as most of the members had moved away. Another branch was founded at Virden in December 1915 by refugees from Colonea Diaz and Colonia Dublin in Mexico. Some Mormons had settled in this vicinity as early as 1898. A meeting house was erected in 1915. On June 17, 1925 the Virden Ward was created and in the following year a new meeting house seating 500 persons and containing six classrooms was erected. The Virden Ward membership in 1930 was 466 persons.

A branch of the Latter-day Saints church was founded on July 29, 1919, at Hachita in Grant County, 35 miles north of the Mexican border, by refugees from revolutionary Mexico who had settled there in 1912. The Hachita Branch was attached to the Juarez-Old Mexico Stake, but was later transferred to the St. Joseph Stake. In 1922 it was attached to the California Mission.

A Latter Day Saints branch was established at Gila, on the headwaters of the Gila River, 25 miles northwest of Silver City, on October 22, 1922. The branch had 73 members in 1930. Other branches of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints have been established at Gallup (1928), Albuquerque (1928), Thoreau (1928), Tres Piedras (1931), Dulce (1931), Taos (1931), Las Cruces (1935), Santa Fe (1935), Carson (1935), Carlsbad (1937), Las Cruces (1938), Lordsburg (1938). Approximately 5000 members of the church reside in New Mexico.*

LUTHERAN BODIESEVANGELICAL LUTHERAN SYNODICAL CONFERENCE OF NORTH AMERICAEVANGELICAL LUTHERAN SYNOD OF MISSOURI, OHIO AND OTHER STATESNEW MEXICO CIRCUIT

Activities of the Lutheran Church began comparatively late in New Mexico. This is explained in the fact that the constituency of this religious body is found chiefly in agricultural and industrial regions of the Nation. Due to the small percentage of tillable area in New Mexico and the paucity of precipitation, few agricultural settlers of the Lutheran group were attracted to this state. It was not until New Mexico became more widely known for its dry, mild, invigorating climate that members of this church gradually filtered in as health seekers.

The first Lutheran pastor to begin activities in the State was Rev. Paul Kretzschmar. In 1908 he resigned as pastor of the Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church of Jefferson City, Missouri, and came to Albuquerque seeking a climate adaptable to his failing health. He arrived here in company with his brother, the Rev. Richard Kretzschmar, of St. Louis, on May 7. The following Sunday services were conducted in the home of Mr. Frank Weertz, 1121 South Walter Street by the Rev. Richard Kretzschmar, after which he returned to St. Louis.

After six months recuperating the Rev. Paul Kretzschmar began conducting services in various homes in Albuquerque and in April, 1909, the Board of Home Missions of the Kansas District began to support this undertaking financially. As a result a small congregation was organized and for nearly three years services were held in the home of the minister. In June, 1911, activities were temporarily discontinued inasmuch as a large number of the members moved from Albuquerque.

About this time a church was organized at Optimo, a small settlement in Mora County, composed principally of Iowa farmers attracted to this area by an exceptional crop of wheat and corn and a persuasive group of land agents. Rev. Kretzschmar was called to the pastorate of this church which was at that time the largest congregation of the Lutheran Missouri Synod of New Mexico. Successive years of drought caused most of the families of this once prosperous community to migrate. The few remaining members are now affiliated with the church in Las Vegas, the Optimo organization having been completely abandoned.

In the autumn of 1914, work was resumed in Albuquerque and Rev. Carl F. Schmid was placed in charge. A congregation was organized which held services for four years in the basement of the old Public Library. In 1918 an attractive church building of southwestern Indian architecture was dedicated.

A Christian Day School was established in the fall of 1924 in Albuquerque which now gives instruction to about sixty-five pupils in the elementary grades.

Rev. Schmid who is now visitor of the New Mexico Circuit began establishing congregations in other parts of the State in 1915. As a result work was begun in Roswell with the Rev. R. A. Hingst in charge and at Carlsbad with Rev. Victor G. Meyer serving as pastor. Subsequently other work was started by these men in Hobbs, Clovis, and Portales. In 1924 Rev. Schmid opened the work in Santa Fe which is now in charge of Rev. A. Meyer of Las Vegas. A site for a church has been acquired and a building is contemplated for the near future.

Additional work is being carried on at Dawson, Deming, Gallup, Raton, Springer, and Stanley.*

METHODIST BODIES

Methodism had its inception in New Mexico in 1850, when the Rev. E. G. Nicholson, recently of Independence, Missouri, was commissioned by the Missionary Society of the Methodist Church to undertake missionary activities in Santa Fe. According to the Annual Report made in 1855 by Dr. Durbin, Missionary Corresponding Secretary, Rev. Nicholson was assigned to the English-speaking population. His labors proved extremely unfruitful, consequently the duration of this appointment did not exceed one year. However, in November 1853 Nicholson returned, bringing with him Benigno Cardenas, who was formerly a Catholic Priest, and Walter Hansen of New York. They began work in the Rio Grande Valley, preaching at Socorro, Peralta, Tome, and San Marcial. Hansen was sent to Tecolote and there founded the first school, of the Methodist Church. It lasted not more than six weeks. In the spring of 1854 Nicholson and Hansen left for the east and never returned.

In the Autumn of 1855 Mr. D. D. Lore was assigned to this area by the Missionary Society. His appointment was not permanent but during November of that year he organized Methodist Episcopal churches among the Spanish-speaking people of Socorro and Peralta. Shortly afterward Lore left for the east and never returned. For the next ten years all Methodist activity was suspended except for the two churches which he had established.

Mr. John L. Dyer, a former South American Missionary, made a visit to Santa Fe in 1865 and, in conjunction with a Baptist minister, held a series of meetings. The results were very discouraging and the work abandoned. Three years later Dyer returned having been appointed to the New Mexican field. He made his home at Elizabethtown and confined his work to the present area of Mora and Colfax Counties. A church was soon established at Elizabethtown and another at Tiptonville. At the request of Dyer the Rev. and Mrs. Thomas Harwood were sent to New Mexico. They arrived in October 1869 at Tiptonville and by December they had established a school in Mora Valley. In the spring of 1870 a spring term of school was held at Tiptonville, Mrs. Harwood being in charge, while the Rev. Harwood attended to a preaching circuit consisting of thirteen localities. The Harwoods gave the work an impetus previously unknown in Protestant religious work in New Mexico. In July 1870 the first Methodist Episcopal Church building in the territory was dedicated. This was located at Elizabethtown. The second one, located at Tiptonville was dedicated in November of the same year.

In 1872 New Mexico was organized as a mission over which the Rev. Thomas Harwood was chosen as superintendent. Twelve years later the work was segregated into English-speaking and Spanish-speaking divisions and functions as such today. Under Harwood's administration the Harwood Girl's School was established at Albuquerque in 1887 and still functions as one of the leading parochial educational institutions of the state. A Harwood Boy's School was also organized but has since been discontinued.

The Methodist Episcopal Church, South established its first church in New Mexico at Old Albuquerque in January 1879, under the leadership of the Rev. W. F. Sheppard of Kentucky. In 1883 this was moved to 318 South Arno Street and in 1909 the cornerstone for a new edifice was laid at Central Avenue and Arno Streets, in Albuquerque. Three years later it was dedicated and has continued to serve to the present time. Other churches were also organized throughout the State, principally in the southern portions.

In October 1939, a merger of the two Methodist Churches was effected in accordance with the National Unity movement. Under the new merger the State is now divided into four districts, eighty-nine pastoral charges and a membership of 24,253.*

AFRICAN METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH
(Colored)

Written records of Grant Chapel of the African Methodist Episcopal Church at Albuquerque begin in July 1884, but from reliable sources it has been learned that this church was organized in 1882 by a Rev. Spotwood Rice. In 1892 the chapel which is used at the present time was built under the pastorship of Rev. Matt Jones. From this beginning, other churches were subsequently established in various parts of the State. There are today five churches located as follows: Alamogordo, Albuquerque, Gallup, Raton, and Roswell.*

PENTECOSTAL CHURCH, INC.

Work of the Pentecostal Church, Inc. with national headquarters at Houston, Texas, had its beginning in New Mexico in 1904. Mr. L. G. Jones of Albuquerque, a layman with some evangelistic experience began home missionary work among his friends and acquaintances at that time. Success attended these efforts and the slowly growing congregation was later allowed to use one of the small Presbyterian Mission buildings for holding services.

Considerable impetus was given to the activities of this church in 1913 when the services of Rev. Leamon, an evangelist from Des Moines, Iowa, was secured. Ten years later a permanent Rev. Longstreet was appointed. Under his guidance a church was established at 1324 South Broadway. Sometime later Rev. Samuel C. McClain of Fort Smith, Arkansas, conducted a series of tent meetings which resulted in the moving of the church to 1600 North Fifth Street, where a lot was purchased and a church building erected.

In 1930 Rev. Dale B. Struble of Clovis succeeded Rev. McClain to this pastorate, which position he has held till the present time. There is now an enrollment of about 175.

The work in Clovis began in 1909 with Rev. A. L. Struble of Ohio in charge. He carried on proselyting for eighteen years holding services in homes and rented halls, after which, in 1927, a church building was erected. In 1935 this work was taken over by Rev. E. R. Southard who is still in charge. Churches were organized at Roswell in 1937, and in Portales in 1938. A church has been erected in Portales and plans for the erection of a similar structure at Roswell are pending. There are approximately 300 members in the State.*

PRESBYTERIAN BODIES

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH IN THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA

Missionary activities of the Presbyterian Church began in New Mexico in 1850. Reverend W. J. Kephart was the first emissary commissioned by this denomination to perform work in the newly-acquired territory. As a result of opposition from the overwhelmingly Roman Catholic population of the territory, he failed to make any permanent religious establishment. It was not until 1866 that a permanent work was instituted. This was accomplished through the efforts of Rev. D. F. McFarland who was commissioned by the Board of Domestic Missions to renew the work in Santa Fe. That success attended McFarland's efforts was attested by the organization of the First Presbyterian Church of Santa Fe on January 13, 1867, less than two months after his arrival in the city. "This was the beginning of the first Protestant church organization in the State with a continuous history." Rev. McFarland's records were some of the finest kept by any of the Protestant churches for this early period in New Mexico. These records are now in possession of the Presbyterian Church at Santa Fe.

Ill health forced this pioneer missionary to leave in April 1873, causing a lapse in the work which was not revived until December 1874, when Rev. George R. Smith was sent out by the Home Board of Missions. He reported that there was but one member left of the congregation. During the succeeding four years only eighteen members were added. Smith left in 1879, and during the following year about half of the membership were won over by the renewed efforts of the Methodists. For the next seven years the church had four successive pastors. In 1887 Rev. Smith returned, giving new impetus to the work for another period of seven years, during which time a bilingual Synod was organized.

The second Presbyterian church in the State was organized in 1869 at Las Vegas under the leadership of Rev. John A. Annin. A church building, which is still in use was completed there in 1873. Senor Jose Ynez Perea, a very influential and well-educated New Mexican became the first elder of this church. In 1880 he was ordained to the ministry and gave a great deal of support to the work throughout the Santa Fe and Rio Grande Presbyteries until the time of his death in 1910.

The organization of the Synod of New Mexico took place in a General Assembly at the First Presbyterian Church of Albuquerque, in October 1889. It was composed of the Arizona, Rio Grande, and Santa Fe Presbyteries, which had been created by division of the old Santa Fe Presbytery, which in turn had been a portion of the Synod of Colorado. In 1905 the Pecos Valley Presbytery was organized, and the Presbytery of Arizona was divided the following year, making five Presbyteries in the Synod. Six years later further division took place in Arizona and a new Synod was created leaving three Presbyteries in New Mexico. This is the present organization of the churches in New Mexico. Statistics show a decided growth in the Santa Fe Presbytery from 1870 to 1938. At the former date there were four ministers, two churches and fifty-one members. In 1938, there were twenty ministers serving thirty-two churches, and 2,120 members. At this latter date there were in the Synod of New Mexico fifty-five ministers, sixty churches and a membership of 5,781.

Educational work of the Presbyterians was begun in Santa Fe in 1867 by Rev. McFarland. Subsequently other education activities were undertaken until at the present time the church supports eight schools with an enrollment of 800 students. Educational and hospitalization activities among the Indians were begun in 1868. Most of this work was subsequently turned over to the Christian Reformed Church. The leading health institution of the State sponsored by the church at the present time is the Southwestern Presbyterian Sanatorium at Albuquerque which is especially equipped for tubercular patients.*

PROTESTANT EPISCOPAL

Activities of the Protestant Episcopal Church officially began in New Mexico in the year 1868. At this time the Territory was included in the Missionary District known as the Northwest Diocese, then covering the present area of New Mexico, Arizona, Colorado, Utah and Wyoming, and was under the jurisdiction of the Right Reverend Joseph Cruikshank Talbot. Bishop Talbot traveled over a large portion of New Mexico as early as 1863 visiting the scattered groups of members and incidentally laying a foundation for future organization.

The Right Reverend William Forbes Adams was elected to the bishopric in 1875 and five years later the Right Reverend George Kelly Dunlop, took over this position. It was at this time that the Missionary District of New Mexico, embracing what is now the States of New Mexico and Arizona, was completely organized. At the first convocation in 1880 the constitution, canons, and other articles of organization were drawn up and adopted by the representative delegates from the Territory of New Mexico.

The earliest organized units within the Missionary District of New Mexico were Old Mesilla, Las Vegas, Santa Fe, and Albuquerque

The oldest Protestant Episcopal church edifice now standing is the St. Paul's Church, built in Las Vegas in 1878. The first churches opened for services in Albuquerque and Santa Fe were in 1882 and 1883 respectively.

Bishop Dunlop was succeeded in 1887 by Right Reverend John Mills Kendrick as Missionary Bishop of New Mexico and Arizona. In 1912, at the close of Bishop Kendrick's twenty-three years of service the Arizona part of the District was set aside as a separate District. The New Mexico portion took over that part of Texas west of the Pecos River. This area is today known as the Missionary District of New Mexico and Southwest Texas. It is at present under the jurisdiction of Right Reverend Frederick B. Howden, who was elected by the General Convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church in October 1913.

Statistics show that there are in the New Mexico portion of the Missionary District five parish churches, thirty-two mission churches, ten missions not completely organized, seventeen ministers and a membership of 10,500.

REFORMED BODIESCHRISTIAN REFORMED CHURCH

The Christian Reformed Church is entering its forty-fourth year of missionary work among the Navajo and Zuni Indians in New Mexico.

In 1896, Rev. and Mrs. Herman Fryling, Mr. Andrew Vander Wagen, and Miss Effie Hofman were sent to the Southwest to work among these tribes. They opened their first mission at Fort Defiance, Arizona, shortly thereafter. In 1897 Mr. Vander Wagen was sent to Zuni, New Mexico and was succeeded by Rev. Herman Fryling in 1906. Soon after Rev. Fryling came to Zuni a day school was opened. This school has continued ever since that time and today has an enrollment of over 120 pupils.

In 1915 social and religious work among the men of Zuni Pueblo was undertaken by Mr. Vander Beek. This work was taken over by Mr.

CHRISTIAN REFORMED CHURCH

Bert Sprik in 1921 and in 1931 by Rev. John W. Brink, who continued in this capacity until 1938, when upon his retirement he was succeeded by Rev. George Yff who is still in charge. There is also a day school conducted at this pueblo of which Miss Marie Vos is the principal.

The work among the Navajos was begun in 1898 at Tohatchi by James E. De Groot. He was succeeded by Rev. L. P. Brink who carried on until 1913, at which time he was replaced by Dr. Lee S. Huizenga. Dr. Huizenga served until 1916 when he turned his work over to Mark Bouma who continued until 1926. Since that time Rev. William Goudberg has been in charge.

Miss Nellie Noordhof started a boarding school at Rehoboth in 1903. In 1910 a hospital was added to the school. This has been enlarged and a resident physician put in charge. The boarding school now has 120 pupils.

In 1910 work was begun at Two Grey Hills but this mission was moved to Toadlena in 1914 where it has since remained.

Posts were also opened in Farmington in 1925 and in Gallup in 1917 and have been actively engaged in the work since their founding. The Shiprock station was taken over from the Presbyterian church and since 1935 has been in charge of the Rev. Henry Rikkers. Work of the denomination is now conducted at fifteen different points.*

REFORMED CHURCH IN AMERICA

The activities of the Reformed Church in America in the State of New Mexico consists entirely in Indian missionary work, which is educational, salubrical and evangelistic in nature. This field was opened in 1907 when Dr. Walter C. Roe, who was then superintendent of Indian work for this denomination, made a trip into New Mexico, in search of a suitable location for a sanatorium for Indian tuberculosis sufferers. The Mescalero Apache Indian Reservation located in Otero County was chosen. In the latter part of 1907 this mission was organized and the Rev. E. B. Fincher placed in charge. After three years he was replaced by the Rev. Richard H. Harper who served for four years. During the Rev. Harper's administration the Chiricahua Apaches were assigned by the Federal Government to this Reservation, having been held for some time as prisoners at the Fort Sill Military Reservation in Oklahoma. While the Chiricahuas were at Fort Sill, missionary work had also been carried on there by the Reformed Church, under the direction of the Rev. James O. Arthur. When these Indian prisoners were released, therefore, and transferred to the Mescalero Reservation it was their own choice to remain affiliated with the work of the Reformed Church.

Work among the Jicarilla Apaches in Rio Arriba County was begun in 1914. The mission which was established is now known as the Walter C. Roe Memorial Mission, and is located at the Jicarilla Apache Indian Agency at Dulce. The Rev. J. Denton Simms served as missionary-in-charge there for twenty-two years. In 1936 the Rev. J. H. Keuning took over the work and is now in charge. There are today approximately 380 members on these two reservations.*

ROMAN CATHOLIC

With the coming of the first Spanish settlers into New Mexico in 1598 came the Spanish priests, not only to minister to the spiritual needs of the settlers but to seek new converts among the Indians of the vast American Southwest.

Always seeking to extend the limits of Christianity the Catholic friars had not waited until the founding of permanent settlements in New Mexico, but had accompanied the explorers of the 16th century. The first European to enter what is today New Mexico was Fray Marcos de Niza in 1538. Two pious monks of the Coronado entrada of 1540-42 remained in New Mexico to meet martyr's deaths at the hands of the Indians. Succeeding expeditions found the priests always taking a major part. In this fact one may see the fundamental principal of Spanish exploration and settlement, the conquistadores with the sword, the padres with the cross.

Juan de Onate in company with several Franciscan friars and a small group of settlers entered the Province of New Mexico on April 30, 1598 and took possession of it in the name of the King of Spain. They advanced up the Rio Grande Valley visiting the various Indian Pueblos. On arriving at the present pueblo of San Juan the first permanent Spanish settlement in New Mexico was founded. Here, at San Juan de los Caballeros, the first church was built in New Mexico. In September of that same year, 1598, Friar Alonzo Martinez divided the Pueblos of New Mexico into eight missionary provinces. A friar was assigned over each of these, Martinez administering the Tewa Pueblos in the vicinity of San Juan.

With the beginning of the seventeenth century came an extensive missionary campaign on the part of the Franciscan Order. By 1621 the Custodia de la Conversion de San Pablo was established as an administrative subdivision of the Province of the Holy Evangel of the Franciscan Order. In 1630 the affairs of this Custodia were administered by fifty friars, whose missions had an estimated membership of 86,000 Christianized Indians. The first Custodia was Alonso de Benavides, under whose jurisdiction many missions were founded and a large number of churches built at the Pueblos. Encouraged with the work he went to Spain in 1628 and presented to the King his Memorial on New Mexico, with the hope of getting additional aid for the New Mexico missions. Estevan de Perea was appointed his successor as Custodia which position he held until 1635. Under his administration the mission work spread to the Acomas, Zunis, and Hopis, but not without its hardships and casualties.

Due to Apache Indian raids, high mortality among the Pueblo Indians, and desertion on the part of some, several of the Pueblo Missions were abandoned shortly after the middle of the seventh century. Especially is this true of some of the Piro and Saline pueblo groups, ruins of whose pueblos and missions are still interesting landmarks.

In 1680 the Pueblo revolt broke the Spanish rule for a short time. Missionary work was necessarily suspended, many friars having been killed and most of the mission churches destroyed. However, the zeal of the friars was not destroyed and with new reinforcements and the reconquest of the Indians they continued their proselyting activities.

According to the best sources available the first Catholic bishop to visit the Province of New Mexico was Martin de Elizaecochea Bishop of Durango, in 1737. A record of his visit is shown on Inscription Rock at El Morro which when translated reads as follows: "On September 28, 1737, the most illustrious Senor Doctor Don Martin de Elizaecochea, Bishop of Durango, reached here, and on the 29th went on to Zuni." New Mexico was placed under the See of Durango about 1730 having previously been under the jurisdiction of the Bishop of Guadalajara.

The Church under the Mexican rule from 1821 to 1846, suffered a severe setback. After the revolution of 1821 the Spanish Franciscans were expelled and secular priests were sent from Durango to replace them. There were at the time of the expulsion twenty Indian Pueblos and one hundred and two Spanish towns and ranches which were attended by the Franciscans.

In 1851 when the Most Reverend John B. Lamy reached Santa Fe, he found that many of the churches in the Province were in a ruinous condition and the priests, who were all Mexican, were of an insufficient number and of such poor training as to render the work effective. Lamy had been appointed by the Holy See to the office of Bishop of Agathon and Vicar Apostolic of New Mexico in 1850. During the Mexican rule educational facilities has been entirely neglected. Lamy, consequently, proceeded to obtain the services of the Sisters of Loretto, Sisters of Charity, Sisters of Mercy, and the Christian Brothers, and provided all possible assistance to establish schools and colleges. He was assisted in this work by his friend, Father Machebeuf, Vicar General of the bishopric.

The Jesuits began their present activities in New Mexico in 1867. They were assigned to Bernalillo in the present Sandoval County. Their duties to this day are confined principally to this county, the adjacent town of Alameda and the city of Albuquerque.

ROMAN CATHOLIC

In 1869 Bishop Lamy laid the cornerstone for a Cathedral at Santa Fe, which was practically completed during his administration. The Archdiocese of Santa Fe was created in 1875 and Dr. Lamy was raised to the status of Archbishop, with the Vicar Apostolic of Colorado and of Arizona as suffragans. Ten years later he retired becoming Archbishop of Cizicus. The Most Reverend J. B. Salpointe, Vicar Apostolic of Arizona was chosen to succeed him. He stressed education and several more institutions were established. In 1894 he resigned and was replaced by the Rev. P. L. Chapelle of Washington, D. C.

The Diocese of El Paso was created in 1914 as another suffragan of the Archdiocese of Santa Fe. It embraces six and one half counties in southern New Mexico and fourteen counties of western Texas. In January 1940, the Diocese of Gallup, composed of parts of the Tucson Diocese and the Archdiocese of Santa Fe, was established. The Very Reverend Sidney Matthew Metzger was named bishop over this new Diocese.

There are today approximately 200,000 Catholics, eighty-three secular priests, eighty priests of religious orders, 420 churches and missions, nearly one hundred stations and fifty parochial schools in the New Mexico Catholic communities. The most Reverend Rudolph Aloysius Gerkin is the present Archbishop of the Archdiocese of Santa Fe, having been appointed in June 1933.

SALVATION ARMY

The Salvation Army began its work in New Mexico about 1890. The first posts to be established were at Albuquerque and Roswell. Successful operation in these two cities resulted in the subsequent organization of posts at Las Cruces, Clovis, and Raton. Recently a sixth post has been added at Hobbs. A district officer with headquarters at Phoenix, Arizona, has jurisdiction over all Salvation Army work in New Mexico. The State now has a membership of approximately 500.*

YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION

According to the records of the Young Men's Christian Association of Albuquerque this association was organized in New Mexico in 1914. In the latter part of that year a campaign was undertaken to raise $75,000 to be used in the construction of an adequate building. On January 11, 1915, the organization was incorporated under the laws of New Mexico, thus obtaining the power to acquire property and build a structure suitable to the purposes of the Association. The building erected upon the land leased from the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railroad was completed in 1915. This is the only branch of the Y.M.C.A. in New Mexico.

A Fellowship Bible Class and a weekly International Sunday School Radio Broadcast are conducted by the Association.*
